

CORPORATE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

INVITATION

Dear colleague

As a valued industry associate I would like to invite you to consider entering into a formal partnership with the World Federation of Critical Care Nurses (WFCCN).

Established in 2001, WFCCN exists to provide a global forum to link the critical care nurses of the world through their local and national professional associations and as individual practitioners. Currently, over 50 national critical care nursing associations, representing hundreds of thousands of critical care nurses worldwide, are members of WFCCN.

The work of WFCCN is voluntary and is supported mostly by membership subscriptions, which are graded according to the national wealth of the country of each member association. To date this has restricted WFCCN's ability to implement global objectives. Therefore, to help further its goals, WFCCN is inviting partnerships with leading medical and pharmaceutical companies through its new Corporate Partnership Program.

The Corporate Partnership Program is available to any health-related corporation or group of individuals engaged in the production of products, sales, and/or services related to, or with an interest in, critical care medicine and nursing practice that are interested in working together with WFCCN to achieve its goals through financial contribution and mutually beneficial collaboration. There are many ways this could be achieved, for example through support of WFCCN-led critical care education programs and facilities in under-developed countries. The possibilities are many, and WFCCN would welcome dialogue with Corporate Partners about mutually collaborative opportunities.

The WFCCN Corporate Partnership Program provides special recognition to strong supporters of our organisation and offers several privileges normally accorded only to WFCCN members. Corporate Partners may serve on WFCCN committees, sub-committees and task forces. Corporate Partners will be recognized publicly via WFCCN's media outlets, communications, and activities, and will be offered opportunities to sponsor key WFCCN events and activities, such as its World Congress.

I do hope you take some time to consider this mutually beneficial opportunity, and I would be pleased to discuss this with you further at your convenience.

I look forward to hearing from you.

INTRODUCTION

Background

Established in 2001, the World Federation of Critical Care Nurses (WFCCN) exists to provide a global forum to link the critical care nurses of the world through their local and national professional associations and as individual practitioners. Currently, over 50 national critical care nursing associations, representing hundreds of thousands of critical care nurses worldwide, are members of WFCCN.

Critical care nurses are integral to the facilitation and implementation of evidence-based practice through collaboration, consultation, education, mentoring, and change leadership. In pursuance of its objectives, WFCCN publishes an online journal (Connect: The World of Critical Care Nursing), which is available free of charge to WFCCN members. The journal archive is open access to all nurses and healthcare practitioners worldwide. The journal can be accessed online at: <https://connect.springerpub.com/content/sgrwfccn>.

The main role of WFCCN is to:

- link critical care nursing associations and nurses throughout the world
- strengthen the influence and contribution of critical care nurses to health care globally
- be a collective voice and advocate for critical care nurses and patients at an international level.

Currently, the work of WFCCN is supported mostly by membership subscriptions, which are graded according to the national wealth of the country of each member association. To date this has restricted WFCCN's ability to implement global objectives. Therefore, to help further its goals, WFCCN is inviting partnerships with leading medical and pharmaceutical companies through its new Corporate Partnership Program.

The Corporate Partnership Program

The Corporate Partnership Program is available to any health-related corporation or group of individuals engaged in the production of products, sales, and/or services related to or with an interest in critical care medicine and nursing practice that are interested in working together with WFCCN to achieve its goals through financial contribution and mutually beneficial collaboration. There are many ways this can be achieved, for example through support of WFCCN-led critical care education programs and facilities in under-developed countries. The possibilities are many, and WFCCN would welcome dialogue with Corporate Partners about mutually collaborative opportunities.

Corporate Partners may serve on WFCCN committees, sub-committees and task forces, by invitation. Corporate Partners will be recognized publicly via WFCCN's media outlets, communications, and activities, and will be offered opportunities to sponsor key WFCCN events and activities, such as its World Congress. Each Corporate Partner designates one individual who has the privileges of corporate partnership.

Corporate Partnership of WFCCN is offered at three levels to enable supporting organisations to contribute at a level of their own choosing: Elite, Premier, and Standard.
